

Join the Rally for Accident Victims on June 3rd at 12pm at Queen's Park

The Ontario government is proposing reducing accident benefits. Victims of a car accident will face more suffering if the Ontario government's changes to cut auto insurance benefits are made.

"Currently, catastrophic victims are able to access one million dollars of medical rehabilitation benefits (outside of OHIP funding) and another million dollars for attendant care needs in order to assist with lifelong limitations and necessary care needs. The proposed changes will cut this funding in half," says Greg Neinstein, Managing Partner at Neinstein & Associates LLP.

"One million dollars sounds like a lot of money, but if you are twenty years old and sustain a catastrophic injury, you will likely never work again and you will require 24-hour care, home modifications, and lifelong rehabilitation. The current policy limits will be exhausted within 5-10 years."

Also, non-catastrophic injury victims will see their coverage for medical rehabilitation and attendant care be reduced to $65,000 from $86,000.

Insurance companies would pay out less to victims, which could greatly impact their recovery and well-being.

We won't sit quietly and wait for these changes to happen. Sign this petition to show your support for Ontario's current accident benefits coverage.

Also, join us, along with organizations, such as the Brain Injury Society of Toronto (BIST), Spinal Cord Injury Ontario and other victims, for our Rally for Ontario's Future Accident Victims at Queen's Park on June 3 at noon, where we will voice our concerns about why current accident benefits need to remain the way they are now.
